

I am totally against any exemptions other than those that are already in place. I feel that it wouldn't only weaken the act it would pretty much render it useless. I will do my best to not use the banks listed above if this exemption happens.